SPECTACULAR IS THE WORD for the cowboy's catch and the photographer's capturing the dramatic moment on film.

Photographer Jim Ziegler pictures Bill Dorrance, a Mt. Toro rancher, during spring roundup and branding on a Carmel Valley ranch.

He reaches forward from his horse to pull the slack to secure the calf, which is racing through the loop. In roper's parlance, it's an "underhand throw left to right."

Dorrance uses a rawhide reata over 75 feet long which he made himself. He is highly skilled in the disappearing cowboy art of cutting long strips from specially-selected hides and then braiding horse equipment such as reatas, bosals, hobbles and quirts. Photographer Ziegler is the proud possessor of a beautiful reata which Dorrance made years ago when he was manager of Tularcitos Ranch.

Undefeated Padre cindermen take Palma; major P.G. meet Thursday

Carmel varsity track team preserved its undefeated MTAL record Friday, downing Palma High at the Hartnell College track, 78 1/2-57 1/2.

The Padre lightweights lost 63-71.

This Thursday on the home track, Carmel meets Pacific Grove, which is also undefeated in a mythical MTAL dual league championship.

On Saturday the Padres will compete in the King City Invitational.

Swimmers split at Santa Cruz

Carmel High's lightweight swimmers sank Santa Cruz 44-41 there Friday, while the varsity dropped a close meet 56-39.

"The boys did nicely," commented Coach Jim Agan. "The varsity meet was closer than the score indicates and a couple more second places would have put us ahead."

He praised the lightweights who came from behind to win in the final relay.

Bob Horn is still undefeated in diving and Ward Gillette set two Carmel varsity records, winning the 200-yard freestyle in 2:00.4 and taking second in the 400-yard freestyle with 4:21.2.

Gary Cohn contributed two first places for the Carmel varsity, taking both the 50-yard and 100-yard freestyle contests.

Carmel swimmers were scheduled to oppose Salinas here Tuesday afternoon.

Tennis squad falls to powerful RLS

Carmel High tennis team went down before a powerful Robert Louis Stevenson squad Friday, 8-1.

Padre racquetmen play Alisal here this Thursday.

Carmel winners Friday were Jim Hinwood and Jan Olsen in doubles. Hinwood and Gary Newton lost very close matches.

Arboles downs Middle School

Carmel Middle School 7th graders lost a close game 9-6 to Los Arboles Saturday.

Outstanding were Mike Canepa with two triples and a single, fielding of Manuel Mancebo who also garnered a single and John Cherry's hitting - triple and two singles.

Also collecting singles were Jim Morton, Rod Diez, Brian Chester, Rink Whitaker, plus Will Moore's fine efforts.

Padres take Palma thriller

Carmel High varsity ball club came from behind to beat Palma 5-4 in a two-extra inning battle Friday on the home diamond.

The JV teams tied 6-6.

This Friday the teams play Pacific Grove at 4 p.m. there.

Possible merger of CVYO and Community Center boards seen

One of the major goals of the Carmel Valley Community Center is to complete a merger with the Carmel Valley Youth Organization, according to George Clifford, newly elected president of the board of directors. Clifford took office last Thursday evening during the annual meeting.

Five new members of the board were elected to replace those who were leaving. New directors are Dr. Patricia May, Mrs. Roger Sherman, Gordon Harlander, Fred Boehme and Harry Baker. Retiring members of the board are Mrs. Mel Blevens, Mrs. Lee Murphy, Mrs. Earle Wilsey, Ken Van Hagen and Doyt Early.

Gordon Harlander will serve as vice president, Fred Boehme as treasurer, and Dr. May as secretary. Mrs. Sherman is now in charge of the scheduling of the Community Center. Persons wishing to reserve the facility should call her at 659-4258.

The plan to merge the boards of the two non-profit organizations has been under study for some time. The feasibility committee reported that they felt the merger would have a positive effect on the community and the combined effort would improve the financial pictures of both organizations.

Board member Bob Hebert is in charge of the planned merger with Mark Starr acting as legal counsel.

Other goals announced by Clifford include landscaping the front entrance way, rear of building, and bath house entrance; complete the pool patio, bring the Center building up to building standards, construct park for the Boy Scouts, and complete the planning for an addition.

Ruth Pryer, chairman of the Festival of the Grape announced that it would be held in May with the date to be set next week.

Valley kids are invited to join pre-teen group

All Valley youngsters in fourth to seventh grade are welcome to join the O.K.'s (Organized Kids) at their first meeting next Saturday, April 6 at 10 at the Community Center. Adults are also invited to this meeting since the organization will be a success only in proportion to the amount of volunteer adult help we can get.

The business at the meeting will include reading and adopting of the by-laws that have been set up by a temporary board elected by the children, election of officers and signing up of members. Flyers explaining the organization and application blanks which will require the signature of a parent will be handed out at Tularcitos this week. Any youngsters from Middle School interested in joining the O.K.'s can contact Scott McGowan or Manuel Mancebo for an application blank.

Scott McGowan and Kathy Simpson met with the Community Center Board last Thursday to explain their goals and needs. While the idea met with enthusiasm, the youngsters were informed that due to the heavy scheduling of the Center there is not much time open for the O.K.'s.

Since the purpose of the group is to get the youngsters off the street and to provide them with a place they can meet their friends and participate in some creative activities under adult supervision, this announcement came as quite a blow.

The efforts of Mr. Homer Gruver and the generosity of Angelo De Maria have solved this problem with the donation by the Rippling River Resort of a building on that property which the youngsters may use as a club house. This hopefully will be open for use after school and on weekends if adult supervisors are available.

Future plans include some money-making projects so the club house can be equipped with sport and hobby equipment, formation of bike and hiking groups, ball teams for girls and boys and many other activities as money and volunteers become available.

Scoutmaster needed

A new Boy Scoutmaster for CV Troop 127 is urgently needed. Volunteers may contact Troop Committee Chairman Ralph Updike, 659-9990, or Lou Gardner, 659-9980.

Manor's addition nixed by PlanCom

The proposed addition to Carmel Valley Manor was denied last week by a 6-2 vote at the Planning Commission. By their motion, PlanCom, led by Keith Evans, pulled in the reins on future retirement home development in the Valley.

Rev. William Pratt, administrator of the Manor, told them that the additional 24 units were planned originally, but the adjoining piece of property was not available at that time.

The Manor's taxexempt status under the state Welfare and Institutions Code was also hit by the commissioners, with the comment that many Valley residents feel they are freeloading, unlike the other retirement communities which bring in tax revenue of more than $125,000 yearly.

CLUBS

● Chapel Guild

The Women's Chapel Guild will meet at 12:15 p.m. Wednesday, April 10, at Fellowship Hall by the chapel. A potluck luncheon is planned by Mrs. Judy Gayman, food chairman.

Following the luncheon, Mr. Dean Meeker, regional staff representative for "Navigators," will give a short talk on "The Christian Living the Life for Christ" and tell about the work of his organization, which deals mainly with a ministry to laymen. The purpose of "Navigators" is to help young men and women toward a place of discipleship with Christ, not only to walk with Him, but to share Him with others.

Guild members are reminded to bring their gifts for the kitchen shower at this meeting.

● Sierra Club

There will be an easy half-day stroll through the meadows and hillsides of the Diamond N. Ranch in Carmel Valley April 6, with Jim Ziegler leading.

Hikers will meet at the entrance to the ranch on Miramonte Rd. about a mile west of Los Laureles Grade at 9 a.m. Ziegler's yellow jeep will be parked at the gate. Hostess will be chapter member Mrs. Lois Robinson, ranch owner.

A strenuous loop trip for experienced hikers will start from China Camp on the Tassajara Rd. April 7.

● Firemen's Auxiliary

Myrna Weber and Pat Cummings were co-hostesses at the home of the Lou Allaires when the Carmel Valley Fireman's Auxiliary members treated the firemen to many different kinds of delectable appetizers. Each member brought samples of her favorites.

The Auxiliary re-elected Barbara Belleci president at its March business meeting. Didi Harber will serve as vice-president; Judy Parham, secretary, and Rosemary Roberts, corresponding secretary.

An installation dinner will be held Thursday, April 11.

● CV Lionettes

Mrs. William Hall was hostess for the March meeting of the Carmel Valley Lionettes.

Small bouquets of spring flowers decorated the tables at Los Laureles Lodge, where reports were made on flowers of a different variety... they myriad yards of a floral patterned material being fashioned into A-line shifts for the Lionettes with matching shirts for their husbands to be worn at the forthcoming Lions convention at Hoberg's.

Mrs. Hall introduced Dr. Leslie LeCron as guest speaker who discussed "Hypnosis."

A new member, Mrs. Tom Bordonaro was welcomed into the club. Mrs. Robert Malloy was a guest.

Community Center and CVYO merger is a good plan

For some time the boards of the Community Center and the Carmel Valley Youth Organization have been discussing the possibility of merging into one, instead of the present two, a non-profit organization.

Within the next two months it will be put to a vote of the boards and then the general membership.

For greater efficiency in maintaining the building and grounds, budgeting money, planning expansion and serving Carmel Valley, we feel this merger is a good plan. It seems wasteful of manpower and certainly confusing to the community to have two organizations with such similar goals and responsibilities running side by side.

One of the major uses intended for the Community Center when it was originally built was to serve the youth of Carmel Valley. It is presently being used to capacity. Between Valley adult organizations, Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts and the CVYO, there is scarcely a free night left on the calendar. The need is definite for expansion and maintenance of the facility to meet the growing population of the Valley.

The Community Center board has always had the job of the physical maintenance and the financial responsibility of the buildings and grounds, as well as handling the use of the facility.

The Carmel Valley Youth Organization has been dedicated to the youth of the Valley, but also to raising monies for improvement and expansion of the Center.

Many people confuse one group with the other... during fund drives Valleyites often don't understand whom they are supporting or why.

It seems practical and a definite advantage to merge the two operations so that they may pull together.

SCHOOL NOTES

CUSD board member suggests year 'round school use

The possibility of dividing the year into four semesters (the quarter system) to utilize CUSD school buildings for the total time instead of having them remain unused during the summer recess was brought up at Wednesday's board meeting.

Students would attend classes for three out of the four quarters, with one quarter of them on vacation at all times, staggering the pupil load.

Dr. Hilton Bialek, commenting on the obvious need for more classroom space, but the obvious lack of funds with which to provide it, suggested looking into the year 'round plan as a solution.

"I don't see how we can go on asking money from citizens with overrides, etc. If the schools are open all year 'round we can afford to pay teachers more. I find it difficult to see a bond issue at the present time but we DO have a space problem," Bialek continued.

The idea was supported by Richard Wilsdon and Steve Sassoon. "Since we do not have the problem of seasonal occupancy in our district because of agricultural commitments, it might be successful," said Sassoon.

Supt. Harris Taylor brought up the matter of the area being such a vacation spot and perhaps this would cause trouble if a student happened to draw a summer semester slot, but Dr. Robert Newton stated that he thought it was a very practical solution since so many business people were required to be here during the summer months for tourist season and would actually prefer to take family vacations during the more slack winter months.

Bialek's suggestion came as an alternative after Taylor had asked for an approval of Keeble and Rhoda as architects for the proposed additional units at Tularcitos School.

The contract for the firm was approved, but the board agreed that a committee should also be formed to study the quarter system suggestion as an alternative solution to crowded schools.

In other business the board approved unanimously the elementary school program proposed for grades kindergarten through fourth to be held July 1-26 at Carmelo School.

The session would provide individualized learning opportunities to children in language arts, mathematics, science, humanities, and physical education, and would also train teachers in the use of materials and instruction techniques.

Six teachers would conduct the summer program under the direction of Carmelo School principal Ed McCurry. It will be financed jointly by funds from the school district, state basic aid, the Kettering Foundation and Pepperdine College. Of the $10,800 cost, $3,500 would be given from Kettering and $1,500 from Pepperdine. The cost to the district runs $4,375.

Each student may not have the same program available to him, according to the elementary school principals who presented the plan (George Gustafson, James Halcomb and Ed McCurry). It would be based on individual need and interest.

The Rhyming Philosopher

Each year comes Spring and something stirs within my soul to go a-fishing.
For countless years this urge occurs but never gets beyond just wishing.

I listen to the mountain streams go rippling round the rocky reaches.
I scan the sea with sailing dreams but never get beyond the beaches.

The rugged trails of crag and hill entice me up the echoed canyons.
I dare not go alone, nor will without sufficient boon companions.

So yearly I see Spring slip by and never yet have got my boots on,
Much less went winging through the sky to festivals in Nome or Tucson.

Each year comes spring, but I'm beset with ev'ry ill that flesh is heir to.
Though Nature calls, I must regret that I can't go -- wouldn't dare to.

A superb cast, good directing produce fascinating Albee play

"A Delicate Balance," the Edward Albee creation which opened at the Circle last weekend, is a very funny play, and we suppose that if you were able to psychoanalyze it while you are laughing, it could be even more rewarding.

If Albee has a message for us in this one, it didn't come through. But no matter, we hung on every cruel word and watched with fascination while the characters suffered the tortures of the damned.

How they can be hilarious at the same time, is this playwright's own special genius. His malcontents never create gloom; the audience sits back amused and watches the barbs fly. And the Circle cast does a skillful and stylish job of tossing them off.

Tobias and Agnes (seemingly doomed to an eternity of mixing drinks for each other) are discussing the imminent arrival of their daughter who has just left her fourth husband, when Harry and Edna, their best friends, arrive with the apparent, but unexplained, intention of staying for keeps.

Tobias and Agnes manage to keep their cool but when daughter Julia gets there, she doesn't. She wants her bedroom back, but Harry and Edna are in it and she resorts to spectacular tantrums.

Gertrude Chappell is her sophisticated best in the role of Agnes. Every inch the lady, she never loses her dignity while verbally murdering her sister, lacerating her husband and walloping her daughter.

Bob Newcomb wins our sympathy as the droopy Tobias, beset by three female relations as well as his "friends." But everybody is beset by everybody else. They are as completely involved with each other as though they were on a desert island. The fact that we can sympathize instead of despising them, is a tribute to the attractive players.

Mel Isenberger is confused and hang-dog (and well he might be!) about moving in on Tobias but Betty Hughes plays his wife with authority, sure that she has the right to kick poor Julia out ... after all, she is the girl's godmother!

Roberta Thaler, making her stage debut, plays the spiteful, unhappy Julia convincingly and with apparent ease.

Sparring on the side-lines is sister, Claire, who protests that she is not an alcoholic, but "just a drunk." She doesn't look like either, which is all to the good. We wouldn't want Gloria Wheeler to lose her bouncy step or grow bags under her eyes just to please Mr. Albee. And her breezy manner is essential to the fun.

Overtones and undertones abound, but we prefer to look upon "A Delicate Balance" as a suspense drama with plenty of laughs. Case in point: when Tobias reminisces guiltily about his long dead cat, his stage family takes him seriously but the audience does not.

Played completely in the round, "A Delicate Balance" is totally absorbing. It would be hard to find a better cast, or a more skillfully directed one.

This is Norman McPhee's last job for the Circle and he took a well earned curtain call with his players.

Jeffers' play on Easter weekend

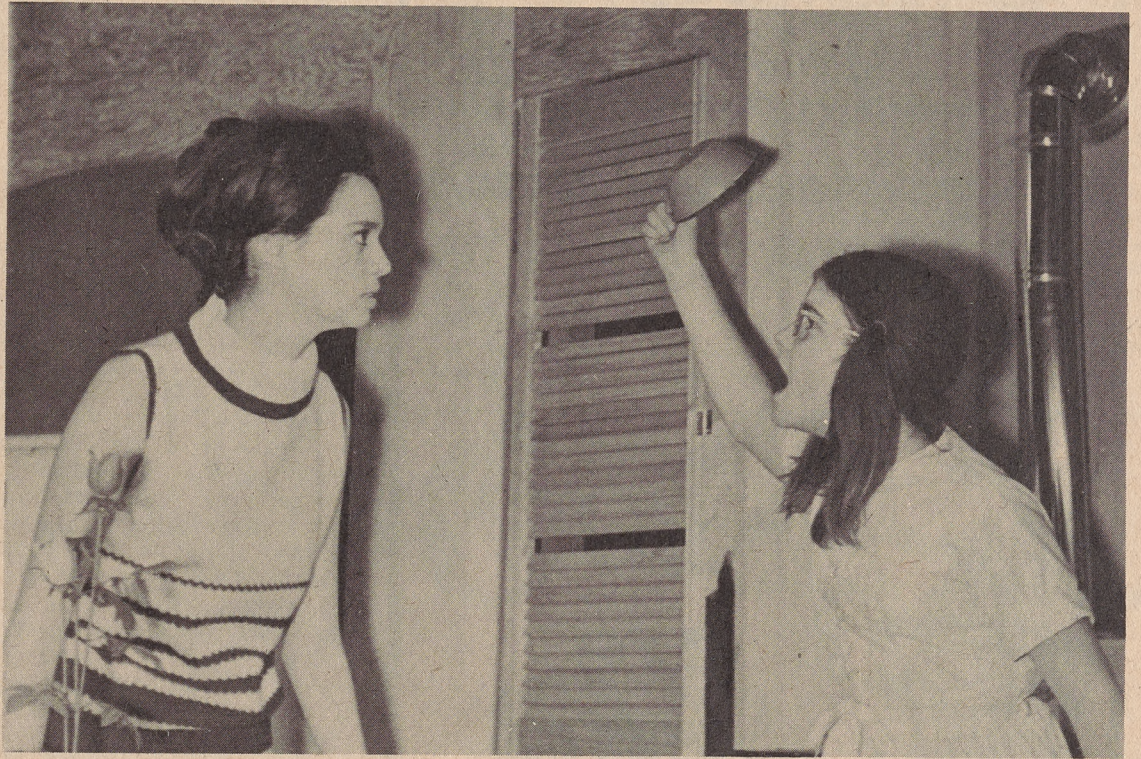

It will be a Robinson Jeffers weekend Easter weekend, April 13 and 14 at Sunset Auditorium with appearance of the professional acting troupe of Labyrinth Theatre Club, Inc. of San Francisco.

The group will present Robinson Jeffers' "Dear Judas" Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30.

They will also present matinee performances of "Prometheus Bound," Aeschylus' heroic comedy Saturday at 4:30 p.m. and Easter Sunday at 2:30.

"These are not readings, but full plays with masks, dancing and the works," enthused Manager Cole Weston of Sunset Auditorium. The plays are sponsored here by the Carmel Cultural Commission.

LEISURE TIMES

ALISON FAUL (right) as Gloria, is an exceedingly nasty girl at the beginning of "Wait Until Dark" as she throws dishes all over to torment blind Susy Hendrix, played by Diane Hall (left). The suspense drama plays Friday, Saturday and Sunday nights at the Studio Theatre in Carmel. Dinner, 6:30-7:30, curtain at 8:30 p.m. (Photo by Ginie Drew)

A scary "Wait Until Dark" opens at Studio

We kept watching with great interest as Diane Hall played the part of Susy Hendrix, the blind girl, in "Wait Until Dark," which opened last weekend at the Studio Theatre.

Not once did we see her goof and appear to use her eyes during the entire performance. This is not an easy role, as she bumped into chairs, attempted to find things and move in semi-darkness, it would seem natural that she would move her eyes accidentally... at least once. But she played the demanding role without a falter. Her perception of noises and movements in her role of a blind person is authentically enacted... and her terror is real.

Alison Faul, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Faul opens the play as a nasty little girl who is taking out her hostilities on Susy, whom she assists during the day with shopping and putting things away. By midpoint she is a clever ally who helps Susy foil the trio of "bad guys" who are trying to get something that they believe is in her apartment. Her transition is excellent and each portion of the character is exceedingly well enacted. Alison is a student under Marcia Hovick at the Children's Division of the Community Theatre.

We felt the two females in this production to be considerably stronger than the men. The opening scene drags and while it sets the storyline and requires background information to be dispensed, it still needs picking up. Mike Talman, played by Rick Poe, takes character by the second scene when he is set in his con man role of a phony old buddy of Sam Hendrix, Susy's photographer husband.

Director Don Osborne appears in several disguises in his role of Harry Roat Jr. and is a sort of bizarre, sinister character. Sgt. Carlino, the third bad guy of the trio, portrays his impersonation of a police detective in a straight-forward manner, but all three could improve on their sinister intents.

Bill Wells is very good as the photographer husband of Susy. He is warm and understanding with a sense of humor.

Dramatic suspense effects are achieved in the use of lights. The audience fairly holds its breath during blackouts, waiting for the next sequence. Many is the time that we had a creepy, tingling feeling as we sat and waited and listened.

Bob Evans Jr. did the set and lighting with his usual degree of excellence, using a small space to the utmost advantage.

Mystery plays are among the hardest to produce effectively. This is a well-written, spine tingling, suspense play, and we feel very well done. Even though you may have seen the movie, with Audrey Hepburn, we recommend taking in the Studio production of Frederick Knott's "Wait Until Dark." There is an eerie quality about seeing it in the flesh that is missing from a movie.

Garden Thoughts

by Salih Mehdy

of the Oleander Garden Shop

These days, "oldcomers," newcomers, and native Californians stop their cars along roadsides and look in awe at shrubs loaded with masses of different shades of blue. These are the ceanothus or California wild lilacs. The genus has many varieties of different habits of growth.

KINDS OF LILAC

"Point Reyes" is low and spreading, thus it is used as a ground cover. "Carmel Creeper" variety is higher with larger and shinier leaves and is also much used as a ground cover. Deer like to eat it but do not bother "Point Reyes" much. "Concha" is a low to medium height shrub with arching branches, blooming as the others in spring, but it will also produce some scattering of flowers later. Its flower color is very dark blue, as is "Julia Phelps"; the leaves are small and shiny.

Other shrub-type ceanothus are C. impressus, "Sierra Blue," "Mountain Haze," and Ray Hartman." There is one with white flowers in the wild, which you can see in the Arroyo Seco area. The wild lilacs are probably the best source of masses of blue in our gardens, and are very easy to care for, needing little water after established.

HEAT CABLE

Gardeners used to go into a lot of work to prepare a hot bed for germinating their seeds and rooting their cuttings. The source of heat was fresh horse manure mixed with leaves and placed in a pit two feet deep. A frame was built on top of the pit with glass sash. The manure was covered with six inches of good friable soil.

Seeds and cuttings were placed into the soil with the gentle heat generated. Nowadays, the process is much simpler and neater.

You can obtain a heating cable with a built-in thermostat which turns off automatically when the temperature reaches 70°F. These cables come in different lengths to fit your needs.

FLOWERING SHRUB

Kerria japonica is a plant named in honor of William Kerr, who sent to England from the Orient many plants of interest to gardeners.

Kerria is a shrub which bears double, deep yellow flowers, like small roses, which appear at the end of short, lateral branches. The leaves are 1-1 1/2 inches long, oval and toothed, bright green and the branches are green. It is blooming now. Kerria is useful as a foundation plant.

It is hardy, since it was able to survive the last cold with no damage. Old stems should be thinned out to give room for new ones.

PERENNIALS

A good perennial is columbine, delicate and airy in partial shade. Like fuchsias, the petals as well as the sepals are colored. The sepals have long, hollow spurs. Flowers are in lovely pastels or white, and attract hummingbirds. They are very hardy and need little care.

Another good perennial is the Coral Bell (heuchera sanguinea). The pleasant green leaves, roundish or lobed, spring from a stout rootstock. Flowers are borne on a stalk carried above the leaves; they are bell or saucer-shaped. The usual color is a rosy red, but there are whites and pink varieties, too. They are very hardy and last for years.

In our garden, we have a border of them planted 10 years ago, and now in bloom again. In these 10 years, I have not seen an insect or disease bother them. Also snails and slugs shun them.

They can be planted in partial shade or sun, and make an ideal border plant. After two or three years, a clump can be divided into many plants.

French parents visit daughter's American 'family'

Dr. and Mrs. Jacques Bathiat of Croix, France, were guests of honor at an American Field Service party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Walker on Crespi Drive. The Bathiats are parents of this year's AFS exchange student, Anne-Francoise Bathiat. Anne-Francoise, or "Fafou" as she is known, has been attending Carmel High School and living with her American "family," Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harkins, since the beginning of the school year.

Her father, Dr. Bathiat is a general practitioner in Croix and he and his wife have been visiting in the United States for about three weeks.

The dinner at the Walker home was a typical American pot-luck, with about 60 guests attending. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sippel, presidents-elect of the Carmel AFS hosted a social hour prior to supper.

Photographers Regina and John Hicks leave for year in Mexico

"Hasta luego! We'll miss you," are the words John and Regina Hicks have been hearing as they prepare to leave for a year in Mexico. They will be living in Monterrey where John will work with an advertising agency, Glenn de Mexico. However, much of his activity will be out of Mexico City.

Scheduled to leave yesterday, the Hicks plan a stop at their old home, San Antonio, Texas, on the way to their new home.

John will primarily be working with TV commercials and films on all of the agency's accounts. One very exciting assignment will be a series on the history of Mexico. He will be visiting and filming at the architectural and archeological spots of historical importance.

Regina will not be idle while there, as she intends to capture in photographs the charm and color of Mexico. She has promised The Outlook a picture story or two during the year. And, in addition to learning Spanish, she hopes to develop some kind of cultural unity or exchange between the Monterrey with two R's and the Monterey Peninsula.

Charlie, the Hicks' personal-pup, will keep the home fires burning and stay with Marty and Ed Miller in Rancho Rio Vista. He was formally turned over on Friday, with suitable ceremony...and being the ham he is, Charlie played the going away to the hilt.

OUTLOOK ON CARMEL

Notes from a Carmel cookbook collector

By PHYLLIS JERVEY

A cookbook of diversity and tradition is the regional prize "Brazilian Cookery," by Margarette de Andrade published by Charles E. Tuttle Co. This is an authoritative presentation of the varied and distinctive cuisine of Brazil.

All of Mrs. Andrade's recipes, some of them over 200 years old, have been tested and include only available ingredients. Often elegant and sumptuous, usually simple and basic, these native dishes have subtle, tantalizing aromas.

This noted American author has a deep understanding of both the language and rich cultural heritage of Brazil having married the late Brazilian journalist and diplomat, Gabriel de Andrade. Food plays an important role in this country's literature, legends and traditions, all of which are described in the charmingly illustrated introductions to each chapter.

Apropos of the present season, following is an excerpt from the chapter "Holidays" called Easter Traditions. On the Brazilian island of Victoria many households still observe Easter as in days of old.

The famous Torta de Semana Santa (Holy Week Pie) is the typical dish prepared for the Easter table. This deliciously seasoned mixture of fish and shellfish is eaten during Holy Week. It is known as a saudosa, or nostalgic, dish. Eating the torta, hot or cold, is a friendly communion which brings men of good will together around fish and wine.

HOLY WEEK PIE

Fishermen string crabs, six to a string, to be sold by street vendors or at markets. The recipe says to take two strings of crabs, one plate of shucked mussels and oysters, one plate of cleaned shrimp, one of lobster meat, 1 lb. freshened codfish; sliced palm hearts (which come canned); olive oil, coconut milk and spices.

Cook all these ingredients gently, then saute in a good refogado (a sauce of onions, tomatoes, peppers, garlic, herbs and other seasonings).

Mix into an earthenware dish. Pour beaten eggs on top, garnish with thinly sliced onions and olives and bake in medium oven until eggs are set and top is browned.

It is necessary that the contents are not moist as this pie is also served cold in wedges. It is distributed amongst friends and neighbors in accordance with regional custom.

Here is a dish which is less elaborate and as good.

SHRIMP MERINGUE

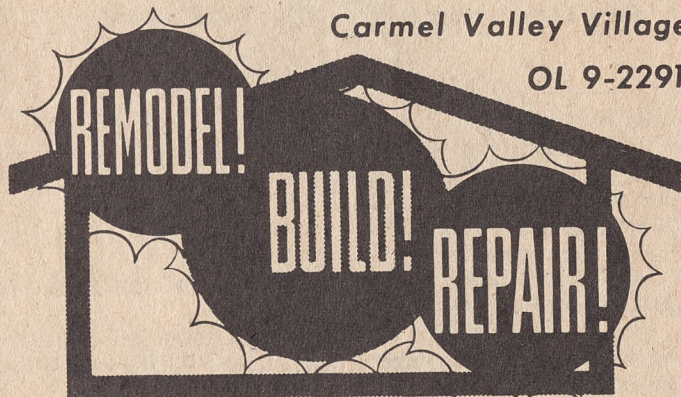

1 lb. fresh shrimp
1 tbsp. lemon juice
Salt, black pepper, olive oil
1/4 cup minced onion; parsley
1/2 cup chopped, peeled tomatoes
4 cups okra, green papaya or summer squash
Shell, devein and clean shrimp. Marinate in lemon juice, salt and pepper for 15 minutes.
Heat oil (about 3 tbsps.) and gently saute onions and chopped peeled tomatoes, adding minced parsley. Add shrimp and simmer 3 minutes.
Add cut up vegetable, cover skillet, bring just to a boil, simmer until vegetable is cooked but not mashed. Do not add water.
Serve with Brazilian Rice which is like what we call Spanish Rice. Fresh fruit and Brazilian coffee make this into a fine Easter brunch.

"Solitude is not to be confused with loneliness... those who flee from solitude in terror are the desperately lonely; they spend their lives in crowds. Solitude is not exile; it can be ecstasy."

So writes John Brook, whose photography exhibit is scheduled to open at the Carmel Photography Center in Sunset Center on Saturday, April 6. His photographs reproduced here are untitled.

Brook is a self-taught photographer from Woonsocket, Rhode Island. His works were first published in 1940 and in 1946 he was staff photographer for the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

He has had major one-man shows in Europe as well as Boston, New York and Los Angeles in the United States.

HAPPINESS is having a pal to snooze with. These little fellows don't know it, but if they don't find a human pal to take them home, they are doomed to a short life at the SPCA Shelter. Palm Sunday performance
Choral Society presents 'Messiah'

Jan deJong will conduct the 85 voice Monterey Peninsula Choral Society and the Monterey County Chamber Orchestra in Handel's "Messiah" on Palm Sunday, April 7, 3:00 p.m. in King Hall Auditorium at the Naval Postgraduate School.

Norma Jean Hodges, Glenna DeWeese, Patrick Daugherty and Charles Woodul will be featured soloists.

Miss Hodges, soprano, has been soloist for the Carmel Bach Festival for the last three seasons. She is regular soloist at the Christian Science Church in Carmel and at the Santa Catalina School for Girls where she is voice instructor.

Miss DeWeese, alto, is a newcomer to the Peninsula. She has been soloist for the past five seasons with the San Jose Municipal Chorus and Choral Society and before that time appeared in Messiah performances in the East.

Mr. Daugherty, tenor, has been soloist with the Robert Shaw and Roger Wagner Chorales on tours of Russia, Yugoslavia, Germany, Japan and Canada. He has appeared in the Carmel Bach Festival and in the Christmas Oratorio.

Mr. Woodul, bass-baritone, sang as lead baritone for three years with the Bern (Switzerland) Municipal Opera Company.

All seats are reserved for the performance and tickets are available through Abinante's Music Store or the Naval Postgraduate School Reservation Desk for $1.50.

UNDER THE OAKS & AMONG THE CACTI

By Mildred Hattan

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rose enjoyed an all too brief two week visit from Fanny's mother, Mrs. Ernestine Privat of Paris and La Rochelle, France. It had been six years since Mrs. Privat and her daughter had last seen each other and the happy occasion was marked with many firsts for the Valley's European guest.

It was the first trip to the United States for her, it was her first meeting with her son-in-law, and it was her first opportunity to see and get acquainted with her two little grandsons, Fredrick who is four and his five-year-old brother, Gregory. The Rose family, who make their home on Lower Circle, are planning to return Mrs. Privat's visit next year when they make a trip to Europe.

VALLEY BRIDGE CLUB

With David Partridge and Gary Belew in first place and Col. A. L. Friedenthal and Maurice Stoney in second place, the Tuesday evening Valley Bridge Club almost became "Men's Night" until Lyde Mink and her partner, Mrs. Carencay Hanel were awarded third place to save face for the ladies. The duplicate bridge tournament is held each Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. at the Community Center.

POTLUCK

A potluck supper at Fellowship Hall was last Friday night's activity planned by the recently formed Junior High Fellowship of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel.

Planned by sponsors of the group, Mr. and Mrs. Lucky Lawson and Rev. Don Johnson, members elected officers during the business meeting. President is Helena Bresk, vice president, Terry Hendrix, secretary, Leslie Condren, and treasurer, Steven Robertson.

NEW RESIDENTS

A warm Valley welcome to new residents on the corner of Laurel and Toyon Dr., Mr. and Mrs. Russ Smeltzer, who have taken the home formerly known as "Casa Diablo." Little did the former residents of the Sunnyvale-Cupertino area know last summer when they vacationed at Los Laureles Lodge that their work would this year find them in the Valley. (Mr. Smeltzer is associated with Beattie Motors.)

They have a son and a daughter, Mary Ellen who is 3-1/2, and Richard who is just a year old.

PHOTOGRAPHS

An interesting contrast in subjects is the collection of photographs currently hanging in the Carmel Valley Library since they show that the subjects caught by the camera of Rem Wolff are "people" while those captured by Lorraine Jones are "things."

Lorraine, who regards her photography as "just a hobby," studied at MPC with Jerry Sharp.

Rem received his training in Massachusetts and professionally has done a medical sociological book study of two towns and a great many portraits which are his specialty.

CHOIR DINNER

The high school choir of the Carmel Valley Community Chapel enjoyed a spaghetti dinner last week prepared and served for them by Mrs. Don Johnson.

Under the direction of Mrs. Sunzah Park, the group of young people have planned a busy future which includes guitar instruction from talented Michael Read.

Attending the dinner were Bonnie Hendrix, Susan Robertson, Cynthia Mausey, Christine Brill, Kitty Hendrix, Paul Bresk, Bob Beckstrom, Peter Mauzey, and a guest, Steven Buck.

ANNIVERSARY

A year has passed since representatives of Sheriff Davenport's finest were called to Ali-so Rd. to check out a report that suspicious characters had broken into the guest house at the Lloyd Todd residence.

Deputies investigating found a young couple who "claimed" to have been given the key to the cottage that day following their wedding ceremony in southern California.

The bride's aunt and uncle, Ora and Lloyd Todd, had continued south on vacation so were not available to prove or disprove their story so it took some fast talking on the part of the newlyweds to spend the first night of their marriage in Carmel Valley and not in the jail of Monterey!

Judy and Joe Thomas who make their home in Bellflower returned to the Valley and spent last week celebrating their first anniversary by revisiting Big Sur, Point Lobos, Moss Landing and the many places which held happy memories for them of their honeymoon... Happy Anniversary!

HIGH INCOME FAMILIES

Reminder: Tax-exempt securities are tax-exempt all year around!

Not just on April 15th. Every spring when tax time rolls around, there's an extra spurt of interest in tax-exempt securities. This is natural enough. After all, high income families (middle income, too) can often realize very worthwhile tax savings through investment in tax-exempt municipal bonds.

We're not tax experts, but we do have one of the best Municipal Bond Departments in the business, and it's just simple arithmetic that if you're in the 48% tax bracket,* a tax-exempt yield of 5.00% is equivalent to 9.62% on a taxable basis. Municipal securities are usually backed by either the full faith and credit of the issuing municipality or secured by revenues produced from basic municipal services such as water, light, and power. Historically they have therefore proved to be a relatively safe form of investment, and, of course, they're readily marketable.

If this sounds interesting to you, call the manager of the nearest Dean Witter office for our Current Offering Circular. Or write the nearest Dean Witter office.

*Single return of $20,000 to $22,000.
Joint return of $40,000 to $44,000.

Firemen to sponsor Easter Egg Hunt

A community Easter Egg Hunt will be held on Easter Sunday afternoon from 1 to 3 p.m. Sponsored by the Carmel Valley Volunteer Firemen, the hunt will take place at the Firehouse grounds on Via Contenta.

Any children through eight years old are invited to attend and prizes will be given in different age categories. Little ones will have a special section in which to hunt so there won't be unfair competition from older, more experienced egg hunters.

Finder of the golden egg will receive the grand prize.

Monterey Youth Science Center lists activities

The annual desert trip, sponsored by the Monterey County Science Center is scheduled to begin on Saturday, April 6, and will end on Tuesday, April 9. The four day camping, study and collecting trip will take place in the heart of the Mojave Desert during the early part of spring vacation. Youngsters must be ten years of age or older and have been active in the Center's fall and winter programs in order to be eligible.

Reservation for the trip closed April 1, but interested persons will be able to participate in many of the other programs which the Science Center plans for its members.

HIKAMP

The HIKAMP division of the Center will begin with a pack trip to Pine Valley in Los Padres National Forest from May 30-June 2. A hiking trip to Sequoia is planned for the weekend of June 28-July 1, and to Yosemite on July 26 for three days.

A four day trip to Lassen is scheduled for August 16.

Anyone interested in the HIKAMP program may get more information from the Monterey Youth Science Center, P.O. Box 2095, Salinas.

YOUNG NATURALISTS

Another program for young naturalists is aimed toward those young people in seventh grade or above. Two evenings a month are devoted to the work, and field trips are planned for weekends. Anyone of this age group who has a keen interest or hobby in a scientific field is invited to join the Center ($5 per year) and meet with others of common interests.

Adults interested in working with young people on nature and conservation are also welcome.

Raccoon naming contest for kids

Kids! You have a chance to win a $50 gift certificate from the Teddy Bear Toy Shop in Salinas, or one of six other prizes to be given by the Youth Science Center of Monterey County for naming one of its favorite residents.

The nameless animal is a ten-month-old raccoon that acts as mascot for the Center. She is very curious and intelligent and happy, except for the fact that she does not have a name. When released from her cage she makes a tour of every nook and cranny of the Science Center, which is located on River Road in Salinas.

Keith Badham, director of the Youth Science Center invites school age children to come out and meet her and think up an appropriate name.

Anyone from first through sixth grade may enter, and the deadline is April 13. After choosing a name, then the entrant must write a paragraph of 25 words or less explaining why he picked the name.

No mail entries will be accepted. They must be taken to the Center and turned in there. The River Road location is five miles south of the Monterey-Salinas Highway.

The Center is open Tuesday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Carmel Hi pupils are in scholarship competition finals

Progress in two academic competitions for Carmel High students were announced this week by Principal Arthur Gumbrell.

Finalists in the 1967-68 National Merit Scholarship competition include Adrian Arima, Brian E. Cronwall, Don E. Harrison and Clifford B. Perry.

They are among 14,000 finalists from across the country who will compete for 500 one-time National Merit $1,000 scholarships and for 2,400 four-year National and sponsored Merit scholarships.

Twelve seniors have also been selected to represent Carmel High in the 1968 Bank of America Achievement Awards program.

Chosen by faculty members, the top winners will receive trophies and have the opportunity to compete for cash awards ranging up to $1,000.

The trophy winners and the study field in which they were honored are:

Clifford Perry, science and mathematics; Jill Whitcomb, fine arts; Chris Olsen, liberal arts.

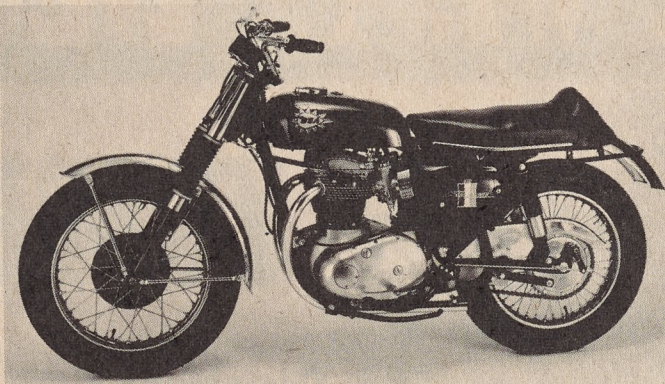

Nine other students were cited for superior performance in specific fields of study and will receive certificates of merit. They are:

Adrian Arima, mathematics; Don Harrison, laboratory science; Donna Manning, English; Brian Cronwall, social studies; Mike Rudzis, foreign languages; Greg Stegeman, music; Marjorie Carter, art; Rena Gomez, business; and Mark Holbrook, trades and industrial.

THE GUADALAJARA, MEXICO newspaper, El Occidental, recently published the above photo of Valley artist Marlinde Von Ruhs whose exhibit of 21 recent works has just opened at Tekare in the House of Culture. The show was to run for 15 days and at the end of the exhibit she planned to return to California. However, according to El Occidental, Marlinde expects to go back to Mexico in October to take part in the Cultural Olympics. At that time she will be exhibiting in Mexico City and other provincial capitals in conjunction with two other Austrian artists, Oscar Kokochska and Hundert Wasser.

© COPYRIGHT 1960 SAFEWAY STORES, INCORPORATED

Featuring the favorite recipes of local cooks.

MRS. PHILIP MOTHERSILL is a knitting-sewing-gardening type homemaker...cooking is only incidental with her. She hasn't a lot of time for it what with memberships in the Community Hospital Auxiliary, League of Women Voters and the Carmel Valley Women's Club, as well as serving as treasurer of St. Dunstan's Episcopal Church.

So she gave us recipes for easy casseroles, family favorites that are company good. And a honey dressing that keeps for weeks in the icebox ready for serving with fresh fruit salads.

The Mothersills came to the Valley about seven years ago from Ann Arbor where Capt. Mothersill was a professor of Naval Science at the University of Michigan. After his retirement he taught for a year at Robert Louis Stevenson School (English and math) and now has a marriage and family counseling service with an office in Monterey. Daughter Ann is a music therapy major, a junior, at the University of the Pacific, Stockton.

- | | |
|--|------------------------------|
| 1 pkg. flat egg noodles | 1 8 oz. pkg. cream cheese |
| 2 lbs. ground chuck | 1/4 cup sour cream |
| 1 large can tomato sauce (family size) | 1/2 cup minced scallions |
| 1 cup cottage cheese | 1 T. minced green pepper |
| 2 T. melted butter | salt, pepper, herbs to taste |

Cook noodles, drain and salt. Combine cottage cheese, sour cream, cream cheese and green pepper. Mix well. Saute meat in skillet, add seasonings and herbs to taste. Then add tomato sauce. Arrange in 2 qt. casserole 1/2 of noodles, layer of meat (half of mixture), then cheese mixture, rest of noodles and remaining meat mixture. Drip melted butter over top. Chill in icebox several hours (24 if you wish). Or freeze. Remove and bring to room temperature. Bake at 375 about 1 hour. Serves 6.

PHOEBE'S BEEF STEW

- | | |
|-------------------------------|------------------------------|
| 2 lbs. lean stew beef | 1 medium can tomatoes |
| 6 carrots | 1 T. sugar |
| 1 onion | 3 T. tapioca |
| 3 stalks celery | 1 slice crumbled white bread |
| 3 potatoes | 1/2 lb. fresh mushrooms |
| salt, pepper & herbs to taste | |

Mix all together and bake for 5 hours at 250 in tightly covered pan.

HONEY FRUIT SALAD DRESSING

- | | |
|--------------------|------------------------|
| 2/3 cup sugar | 1/3 cup strained honey |
| 1 tsp. dry mustard | 5 T. vinegar |
| 1 tsp. paprika | 1 T. lemon juice |
| 1 tsp. celery seed | 1 tsp. grated onion |
| 1/4 tsp. salt | 1 cup salad oil |

Mix all dry ingredients. Add vinegar, lemon juice, honey and onion. Mix well together and add oil very slowly, about a spoonful at a time, beating constantly until all oil is absorbed. If oil is added too fast, dressing will be thin and runny. This recipe can be made easily in a blender, adding oil very slowly.

Located in the wooded area some four miles down the Coast from the enchanted village of Carmel-by-the-Sea and the world-famous Pebble Beach golf course, here's a delightful spot hidden away just a few hundred yards off the main highway.

Beautiful ocean views, all wooded; one boundary is a canyon of virgin redwoods owned by Pt. Lobos Reserve—a permanent green belt, with Gipson Creek running musically through it all year round, extending your private forest by much, much more treasure. Wild strawberries, mushrooms, every bird in the area, all the big and little creatures of the Highlands forests, and magnificent trees all come with the land.

This isn't a property which has been sold and re-sold. The three acre parcel has been in the same ownership for over 30 years, and it has just now been surveyed and divided into three one-acre parcels.

One acre is entirely unimproved, one is unimproved except for a small guest house rented for $85 per month, and the middle acre has a charming, comfortable old residence with 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, and a guest room.

During his 30 year residency the doctor-owner has developed a famous collection of rhododendrons, oriental magnolias, camellias, and has discovered that growing conditions are the same as Golden Gate Park in San Francisco -- frost-free climate, intermittent summer fog, spring water, and ideal soil. The planting has been done right in the forest, so there is no "landscaped" look.

The package price is $100,000. We could consider selling one acre, if you want only a building site for your own home, at $26,500.
